MOB LAW

Texas. Mr. Brooks will visit our merchants In Pickens County, Alabama - Nat T. Pierce, Charged with Murder, Taken from Jail and Hanged by a Mob.

Mobile Register, 7th: On Wednesday night, the twenty-sixth of September, a band of armed men entered the Pickens county jail, where Nathaniel T. Pierce was confined under charge of murder of Thomas C. Kil-patrick and William T. Story, took Pierce from the jail, carried him about a mile from the jail and executed him. Last winter, Nathaniel Pierce came to Pickens to avoid prosecution for murder committed in Noxubee county, Mississippi, the place of his resi-dence. The sheriff of Noxubee county stated on the preliminary examination of Pierce be-fore Judge Williams, in Carrollton, that he had as sheriff, "a capias, copy of indictment, and requisition made by the governor of Mis-sissippi on the governor of Alabama, for Nat Pierce, charged with murder committed in Noxubee." Jake Pierce, the brother and accomplice of Nat Pierce, resides in Noxubee county, Mississippi, and succeeded in making his escape, and is now, doubtless, beyond the reach of the officers of the low. the law. It is impossible to say whether the mob was composed of men from Pickens county, Alabama, or from Noxubee county, Mississippi. But wherever from and how-ever composed, they meet the denunciation of the officers of Pickens county, and will be arrested, if possible, and punished. The Pickens grand jury, in their report, very properly say:

"With regard to the tragedy which took place in the town of Carrollton on the night of September 26th, we feel at a loss how to express ourselves. All the surroundings of the crime—perpetrated by an armed mob upon a defenseless man, who was in the hands of the law and entitled to its protection, whatthe law and entitled to its protection, whatever the offense with which he was charged, and however strong the evidence of his guilt; the remarkably barbarous manner in which the deed was committed, and the contempt cast upon the general administration of the law by the commission of the deed during the session of this court and within sight of the court—all invest it with a degree of hor-ror for which there can be no adequate ex-pression. We keenly feel the great damage which it has done us a community, and recog-nizing the fact that no people can be secure where private individuals presume to judge where private individuals presume to judge and punish those charged with crime, we as-sure your honor that we have availed our-selves of every resource at our command for twenty thousand people may not stand black-ened by the act of a few masked individuals." THE SKEGGS AFFAIR.

Out of Work and Too Much Resort to Strong Drink. Nashville American, 9th: W. B. Skeggs, who had been stopping at the Franklin house who had been stopping at the Franklin nouse for a week past, went to see his wife at the house of her father, Frederick Bailey, corner Hines and Knowles streets, just before noon yesterday. While in conversation with her he put his left arm around her, and with his right shoulder the ball passing through one kyn Middlewick" sustained his role with excellent effect and kept the audience in a state of enjoyment whenever he was on the stage. The support by the members of the company was quite acceptable, and attested their talent as well as the suitability of the cast. Miss Mary Taylor as "Violet" were easy, grace- firing twice at his own head, and slightly wounding himself in the back portion of his ranium. When he reached the corner of ore, at that point, and asked for the loan of a pistol to protect himself against a man who had killed his own wife. This, as soon as obtained, he fired off and rushed on through Cedar street, a policeman in the meantim lice station. Upon searching his person pa-pers were found revealing the fact that he and premeditated THE KILLING OF HIS WIFE and of himself. In a paper pocketbook was found his wife's photograph, upon the margin of which, at the top, he had written: "God bless you;" and on the right: "You "God bless you; and on the right: "You let them make you hate me;" on the left: "So your time has come;" at the bottom: "You die to-morrow;" upon the back: "It is very hard to kill you—I kill myself to-morrow." On the inner partition of the pocket-book was written: "We go together. Bury her close to me;" and on the outside: "Mary, you have always been my dearest and best you have always been my dearest and best-how could I leave thee?" Around the man now could I leave thee?" Around the margin of quotations given below he had written the following: "She said they can talk against me, but I will not listen to them. She said, take this chain and sell it. It will help you to St. Louis. You must not try to walk. Hence I parted with the chain. Then I was driven from home, myself and my wife, and I had to part with the watch. She said, God bless her, I cannot wear valuables when I know you are starving." "These are my dying words, and are true, so help me God." On the back of the letter was written: "Tell boy is out of misery now. God bless her." He then names over a number of Nashville and Edgefield gentlemen whom he had asked nother not to grieve. We will meet her; her for work, and then adds: "I asked at every mill and every place where I thought I could obtain work. I have been miserable because COULD NOT SUPPORT MY BELOVED WIFE. God knows I loved her devotedly, and would have done any kind of labor to help her. They made her believe I did not care or her, and did not wish to support her. oved her better than life.

This is her writing:
"My strength and my Redeemer; thou art ing work over the ordinary dentist. Call and my strength; into thy hand I commit my spirit. Wilt not thou deliver my feet from falling. Be not afraid, I the Lord hath called thee in righteousness and will hold thine hand and will keep thee. My grace is sufficient for thee, for my strength is made perfect in weakness. I know whom I have elieved, and am persuaded that He is able b keep that which I have committed unto lim. Darling, I will be lonely without you, but it is for my sake you are trying to do. God will protect and guard your path. I will think of thee and pray for you. Think of me, darling, when far away. Lovingly, your wife,
He wrote on the back of this letter, "God will forgive me, but he will punish those that destroyed my peace of mind and drove me to this horrid thing. I am a stranger almost and it was so difficult for me to get employment. I would never have done anything TURNED MY WIFE AGAINST ME. He also wrote the following: SUNDAY, October 6, 10 p.m.-I have a last resolved to kill her, and then myself. She shall not live, nor do I wish to live. I am driven to this by my own kin. I was ompelled to part with the watch and chain because I was thrown on the street with my wife, and I had to obtain money to take her to the country. I loved her dearly-better than life. It is hard to kill her, but I must. I am not insane; I am perfectly rational. I have contemplated suicide often, but I would not do it because they have not heard how I have been wronged. As for work, I have tried a thousand different persons, but I received the same old answer: "No, no, we have no work for you to do." Since all have turned so against me, I had rather die. I cannot sleep at night, nor can I eat. My trouble is unbearable; I would rather die. If I could get a situation at twenty-five dollars per week I could not work. God bless my ther; she is the only person on earth that I tried to get work. You can lay this deed at the fect of all my relations, and all are against me, and I hate them for putting my beloved wife against me. She loved me to the last. This cruel, bitter world is too hard for us. So I will say forget this as soon as you can. I am ready to die and very willing,

Himself.

CLEVELAND, TENN., October 6 .- A terrible tragedy was enacted in the fifth civil dis-trict of Bradley county last night. An old man by the name of Carper cut his daugh-ter's throat, struck her childlen the head with a smoothing-iron, then cut its throat, and af-terward shot himself. He was found in the on the inside, lying on his gun, but still alive. He has since died. He was an avowed atheist, and had been heard to remark on one or of the trouble is El Paso, a large, but for the two occasions that he had better kill his famly and himself, and get out of this world. All of the family that were at home at the time were killed. He has been a citizen of Bradley county only a few years, having come here from Nashville with other rela-tives, who reside near the scene of the sickening tragedy. Carper was an old citizen of Nashville, and followed the trade of locksmith and gunsmith in a little frame-shop on Clark street, which he occupied for many years. He was very fond of discussing the-ology and the bible, which he professed to disbelieve, and rather courted the notoriety which attached to one known and pointed at as an "infidel" in the primitive days of Nashrille. He was a man of limited school education, but had acquired considerable informa-tion from reading. He was fonder of a hot dispute than his breakfast, and would drop his work any time to engage in a discussion, for, "e'en though vanquished, he could argue still." During the intense war excitement in Nashville, when the ordinance of separation was passed, he was the only man who got up in the markethouse, when the excitement ran highest, and denounced the war and the leaders in the movement. At that time no other man, perhaps, would have been allowed to have given expression to such strong anti-southern sentiments; but everybody said, good-natured in that "it was only old John Carper—he was a religious monomaniac," in fact, that he rather labored under an hallucination on any subject, and thus passed him nation on any subject, and thus passed him by. Carper had two daughters, one of whom married Sergeant Jenkins, of the Metropoli-tan police, and afterward clerk of the county jail. Jenkins died of the cholera in 1873. He had his life insured for quite a sum of money. With this a farm was purchased in Bradley county, near Cleveland, by the sec-ond son-in-law, and after having located there, Carper and Mrs. Jenkins and daughter

Thirty Americans in Danger of being Murdered-Howard Seized and Bound Hand and Foot by the Mob, but Escapes.

New York Herald Dispatches. SAN ANTONIO, October 6.-Intelligence o of a startling Mexican uprising in the northwest of this State has just been received here from Fort Stockton, the news having reached that post by mail this morning. The most part barren country, which is almost one thousand miles in extent, but only sus-tains a population of about four thousand souls, of which one-tenth are colored, and not half a hundred English speaking Americans. The inhabitants of the county are nearly all tled along the narrow valley of the Rie Grande, which forms its western boundary This is almost the only arable portion of th plains, without water or timber, crossed b ranges of mountains. In the northwest there are expanses of sandy marshes and lakes which, as will be seen hereafter, have some thing to do with the trouble. ORIGIN OF THE TROUBLE. Along the Rio Grande valley are, as has been noted, the principal settlements, and between these and the Mexican town of I Paso there is continual intercourse, and the sentiment of the inhabitants is strongly pro-Mexican and bitterly hostile to American whites. For some time past there has been a feud in the county between a party led by mail contractor named Louis Cardis. The former is married to the daughter of a man named Zimpelman, who has located claims on several of the salt lakes, where, up to a short time ago, the Mexicans used to procure their salt free of charge. Of late Howard has insisted that all salt taken must be paid for. A very bitter state of feeling was the result, and culminated in an open quarrel in the town of San Elizario between Cardis and Howard. The sheriff was called in to pre-vent bloodshed, but, the quarrel once started, it was impossible to preserve the peace. Th Mexicans rose en masse and seized the town, flung Judge Howard into the jail and bound him hand and foot with ropes.

"DEATH TO THE GRINGOS." This done they paraded the streets shouting "Death to the Gringos" and "Viça la Mejico." Soon after they captured some other officials, including Judge M'Bride, and lodged them in jail. The town of Isletto was also visited by a band of armed Mexicans and the officials

There are no United States troops near the scene of this little re-bellion. At military headquarters substantially the same account is given of the origin of the disturbance. The rebellious Mexicans have thrown out scouts and pickets around the towns named and along the river. American is allowed to communicate the prisoners. A call has been made El Paso for troops and it is probable that Colonel Hatch will be sent there. The call is for two companies, with artillery.

CHICAGO, October 6.—The report having reached here this evening from Fort Davis, Texas, that there had been an invasion of American soil by Mexicans, followed by the capture of two towns, a representative of the Herald called on General Sheridan at his res-idence to ascertain what intelligence had been received at army headquarters on the subject The general said he had the very latest infor mation, and was in a position to deny everything which pointed to any armed conflict or an invasion. The report, he said, was wholly incorrect and had no shadow of truth, except in one particular. He then went on to make this statement: "There had been at the town of Santo Elizario some trouble for some time past between citisens regarding some salt springs or a salt lake, he was not certain which. These troubles had finally broken out in a sort of mob violence, the citizens only participating. The parties were wholly Mexican, the town being populated almost wholly by this element. Civil officers had been sent from El Paso, twentyfive miles distant, for the purpose of making some arrests, which had been done. This was the whole extent of the so-called inva-TROOPS IN MOTION. General Sheridan at once ordered Lieuten ant Rucker, with twenty-five or thirty soldiers, to proceed at once to Santo Elizar rom El Paso, and investigate the trouble and that officer has departed for the scene. This, says General Sheridan, is all there is in the rumor. It was confined entirely to a brawl among the Mexicans themselves over the salt springs.
